

I am urging the FCC to reject NAB's petition 04-160. I pay money to listen to XM radio and support what they do to provide greater choices to the public. Why should anyone have the right to restrict what programming choices they offer. Maybe the NAB should look at ways of innovating their own services instead of squashing the innovations of others. This would be a violation of the First Amendment and would be censorship by the FCC if enacted.